Canvas offers several ways of interacting with Professor Glodo. One is Ask the Professor. This is the primary place for posting questions and has the benefit of allowing classmates to profit from the dialog. A second is Inbox. Inbox functions like email and can be used if you have an individual question. Third is Conferences. Conferences allows for video conferencing, screen sharing, etc., and can be used in place of traditional office hours.

Canvas also allows for interaction with classmates. You can interact with classmates via the Student-to-Student forum or Conferences.

See FAQ on the Home Page or at Modules > Course Resources for instructions on various Canvas features.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The course does not officially open online until the online date indicated above. Students are advised to begin reading the assigned texts and locating exegetical resources as soon as possible.

The optimal pattern of learning would be to watch the lectures and do the reading before the weekend and then complete the homework after, rather than trying to do everything on a Saturday.

The course requirements with their respective percentages are as follows:

Leading in prayer assignments	15%
Quizzes on Chapell reading & online lectures	25
Class attendance, participation, in-class assignments	5
Student-professor discussions	5
Sermon preparation assignments	25
Sermon manuscript	25

EXEGETICAL RESOURCES

The sermon preparation assignments and final sermon manuscript will be based on an assigned scripture text. You will be assigned to a Canvas group working on your scripture passage by the start of the course. Be sure to have access to sound and substantive exegetical resources such as a New Testament introduction, Bible dictionaries or encyclopedias, and exegetical commentaries. Sermons of others are not to be used as study resources. You may consult study Bibles but they don't qualify as resources since they consist of summarized conclusions rather than the information on which conclusions are drawn. Use of homiletical commentaries, printed or recorded sermons, and other similar "finished products" is discouraged for purposes of this course.

LEADING IN PRAYER ASSIGNMENTS

With the ultimate aim of preparing you to conduct the ministry of public prayer you will complete the prayer project assignments contained in this syllabus according to the course schedule below. These will be based on Hughes Old's Leading in Prayer and are to be submitted on the course web page. Each individual assignment is to be submitted as a document upload on Canvas, but be sure to retain a copy of your assignments for yourself.

QUIZZES ON CHAPPELL READING & LECTURES

You will read the assigned pages in Chapell according to the course schedule below and take a series of objective or short answer quizzes based on the assigned reading and the online lecture(s) indicate. Quiz questions on the readings and on the lectures will be separated into separate quizzes, so some weeks it may appear that there are multiple quizzes. These will be timed quizzes to be taken without notes. The number of questions and time allotted will be indicated on Canvas before you begin each quiz. While all the quizzes will be open at any time, they must be taken in order and each one will have a deadline after which they may not be taken. You may take each quiz up to twice with the average score counting. If English is your second language or you have a diagnosed learning disability, you may request added time for each quiz.

* Using a previous edition means you assume the risk of any quiz questions which may be unique to the third edition.

CLASS ATTENDANCE & PARTICIPATION

The class attendance and participation grade will be based on your presence, in-class activities, attentiveness, and contribution to in-class time.

STUDENT-PROFESSOR INTERACTIONS

The hybrid format of the class requires a certain number of direct interactions between the professor and student. These interactions will consist of simple questions soliciting students' thoughts about a variety of issues related to preaching and will require only a few moments of reflection to respond.

SERMON PREPARATION ASSIGNMENTS

In the weeks leading up to and during the week on campus you will complete steps toward preparing your sermon manuscript. These pre-campus components are included in the course schedule below. Additional steps will be covered during the on-campus period. By the start of the course, you will be assigned a scripture passage with a small group of classmates. You will have the opportunity to share research resources with one another on Canvas. To fulfill the student-to-student interactions required by the hybrid format of the course, these assignments will include a peer review portion in which each group member will review and comment on fellow group members' assignments. Those peer reviews are typically due the week following the assignment itself. Peer reviews are expected to be substantive, i.e. specific observations or questions.

The primary objectives for these preparation assignments are as follows:

- Exegetical research on your sermon scripture passage.
- Identify a Fallen Condition Focus (FCF) and formulate a sermon thesis (Big Idea) for your sermon according to the directions in the Chapell readings and recorded lectures.
- Develop a main point outline which implements your Big Idea.

As the pre-class assignments are submitted, you will receive feedback from me which will assist you in progressing to the next steps and the final sermon manuscript. Be sure to bring this work with you to campus so that it will be available for additional steps. Following is a list and brief explanation of these assignments. Complete instructions will be provided on the exegetical worksheet instructions document on the Canvas home page.

Book summary, exegetical outline & exegetical summary of meaning for scripture passage – an exegetical outline of your assigned passage along with a summary statement of the meaning of the text for the original audience and list of research sources fitting the criteria provided in the lectures.

Sermon thesis (Big Idea) & Fallen Condition Focus (FCF) – a sermon proposition is a single statement in indicative/imperative format summarizing the sermon.

Main Point Outline – the main points of your sermon, each point in indicative/imperative form.

Sermon introduction & conclusion – a manuscript of your sermon introduction and conclusion which includes the elements as set forth in the reading and recorded lectures.

SERMON MANUSCRIPT

By the date indicated in the schedule you will submit a full sermon manuscript for a 30-minute sermon (approx. 3,000 words \pm 500) based on the scripture text assigned by the professor and conforming to the requirements covered in the readings and lectures.

The manuscript should have a cover sheet which states your FCF(s), thesis, main point outline, and transitional statements. A sermon manuscript checklist will be provided to help you review your manuscript before submission. The manuscript is to be uploaded to the course web page by the date indicated above.

EXAMS

There are no exams.

GRADING POLICY

Late work will be penalized unless prior permission for late submission was granted. Assignment deadlines are typically 6:00 p.m. on Saturday evenings so that you can begin to properly prepare for the Sabbath. If you are not in the Eastern U.S. time zone and Canvas indicates the assignment is late, ignore the late notice. I will take into account the necessary time zone adjustment.

The published RTS grading scale is used in this course. See the RTS Catalog.

IN-CLASS TECHNOLOGY

Electronic outline handouts will be provided for the pre-campus recorded lectures. Printed handouts of each day's on-campus lectures will be distributed in class and will not be available in electronic form. Therefore, laptops and tablets will not be needed and are not to be used in class. Additionally, mobile phones are to be out of sight and not used when class is in session unless you need to be reachable for timely or urgent professional or personal reasons. (e.g., you are a fireman on call, your wife is pregnant, or you are a member of Seal Team Six). Please inform me if that is the case.

Students should bring a printed Bible to class since electronic Bibles will not be accessible during the lectures.

COURSE SCHEDULE

ONLINE SCHEDULE

Weekly assignments are due by 6:00 p.m. on the Saturday indicated (deadline will be set for Eastern Daylight Time, so you may ignore late notices due to time zone differences.). This is to encourage you to be present with your family on Saturday evenings and to begin preparation for the Sabbath. Many assignments are open at the beginning of the course and can be completed at any time prior to their deadline, so any planned travel, vacation, or other responsibilities should be anticipated and planned for in advance. Late assignments submitted on the Sabbath will not mitigate their lateness. It would be better to finish them on Monday and turn them in then. Consider giving the Lord your best and not planning on Sunday being coursework day.
