I. Details

1. Times: Monday to Thursday: 9:00AM–12:00PM & 1:30PM-4:30PM; Friday 9:00AM – 12:00PM
2. Instructor: Dr. Richard Lints
3. Contact: rlints@gmail.com
4. Due Dates: All written work is due May 31

II. Goals

1. To develop an integrated theology of how church and culture relate from a Reformed biblical perspective.
2. To understand the character of our late modern secular culture
3. To appreciate the criticisms of various thinkers of late modernity.
4. To develop biblical discernment in cultural analysis and cultural appropriation.
5. To understand and critically evaluate different models for cultural engagement.
6. To develop ways to navigate the challenge of over-adapting to culture or under-adapting to culture.

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will explore a biblical theology of culture from a Reformed perspective, evaluate different models for Christian cultural engagement, and develop a biblical perspective on the principles and practice of contextualization. Attention will be given to the application of cultural analysis and contextualization in church ministry.

V. Required Reading:

1. James Hunter, To Change the World (Oxford, 2010)
2. Tim Keller and James Eglington, “Lemonade on the Porch: The Gospel in a Post-Christendom Society – Parts 1 & 2” Accessed at: <https://gospelinlife.com/article/gospel-in-a-post-christendom-society/>
3. Dan Strange, Plugged In: Connecting Your Faith With What You Watch, Read and Play (Good Book Co., 2019)
4. Richard Lints, Identity and Idolatry (IVP, 2015)

VI. Assignments:

A. Student Discussion/Presentations – Day Three Morning (March 18)

In groups of 2, take one of the following issues and brainstorm 2-3 things to say in response. The rest of the class will serve as your post-Christian audience.

1. Why do you have such a negative view of people, calling everyone sinners?
2. How can you say there is only true religion?
3. It doesn’t seem fair that God sends some people to Hell?

4. Why do I need to get meaning, satisfaction, and identity from religion
5. Isn't it religion vs. science? Hasn't science proved we don't need God?
6. Why do I need religion in order to be a moral, just, decent person?
7. Aren't religious people sexually repressed?
8. Doesn't religion lead to exclusion and violence?

B. Short Reflection Paper – 3-5 pages Which model of mission comes closest to describing your own convictions about the way in which the church relates to it's surrounding culture. Offer reasons why you have adopted this model. Give some concrete description of the priorities that this model would give to you as the pastor or lay leader in the church.

C. Two Interviews:

1. Talk to one non-Christian - asking them what are the greatest obstacles to religious belief. You should also inquire whether they ever thought religious belief was a viable option for them. Write up the interviews in 2-3 pages, double spaced, 1000 word limit.
2. Talk to a Christian from a different cultural context than your own. Ask them what they find distinctive about their culture, and the issues the church faces in that context. Write up the interview in 2-3 pages, double spaced, 1000 word limit.

D. Film or Book Review 3-5 pages (1500 word limit)

Write a short review of a popular film, television show or book – explaining why it has cultural significance, how it explains the significance of life, and how moral decisions are made. What is the major “problem” to overcome and how does the “solution” work?

E. Group Book Review

In groups of four, read one of the following books, and together draw up a one page summary – in bullet points – of the main points of the book.

Peter Berger, The Heretical Imperative (Anchor, 1969)

Alisdair MacIntyre, After Virtue (Notre Dame, 2007, orig 1981)

Christopher Lasch, The Culture of Narcissism (Norton, 2018, orig 1979)

Charles Taylor, A Catholic Modernity (Oxford, 1999) with responses by Jean Bethke Elshtain and George Marsden

Alvin Plantinga, Where the Conflict Really Lies (Oxford, 2011)
